FRIDAY
JULY 10, 1953

E., Audrey and I had lunch at the Marigny Restaurant.

This afternoon a great deal of time was taken up by the New York Times photographer, who had instructions to photograph me in connection with an article [redacted] Teddy White has written for the Sunday edition of the New York Times.

We had a cocktail party this afternoon to which we had asked about 500 people. It seemed to me [redacted] most of them came. Fortunately the weather, though cold, was clear, so we were able to use the garden.
